(Repeat 1st verse slowly)

Glory to the blue complexioned one
Who wears yellow cloth and
Who carries the conch and mace
Glory to the remover of sins
Who is decorated with sandal paste
Wears earrings and the Kaustubha jewel
The lotus eyed one with beautiful eyebrows
His feet I seek
Glory to the player of the flute
The celestial dancer, the handsome one
Whose body is bent in three places
Glory to the brave statesman
Who is amazingly handsome
And is difficult for even the Gods to attain
His feet I seek
Glory to the One who is the cause
Of stability, attracts the mind
And the Universe
The auspicious one who shelters the truth
And is the ultimate friend!
Glory to the divine player
Who destroyed the snake Kāliya
And whose laws cannot be overturned
His feet I seek
Glory to the ever blissful and imperishable One
Who is the refuge of the devotees
And the benefactor of the lowly
Glory to the savior of the masses
Establisher of Dharma
And the destroyer of demons
His feet I seek
Glory to the rescuer of the Vedas
Sri Radha's beloved
The treasure of Brindavan
Ever pleasing destroyer of misfortunes
And protector of the virtuous - His feet I seek
